PNW to honor 889 candidates at spring commencement

A total of 889 candidates have completed plans of study in PNW's academic colleges of Business; Engineering and Sciences; Humanities, Education and Social Sciences; Nursing; and Technology. Honors College graduates who have completed enriched multidisciplinary academic opportunities, leadership engagement and community service will be recognized. Graduating seniors with the highest grade point average from each academic college will be presented a Chancellor Medallion by PNW Chancellor Thomas L. Keon.

The candidates include 755 earning their baccalaureate degrees and 134 earning their master's degrees.

PNW's spring commencement ceremony will take place outdoors on the Hammond Campus in the area south of the Nils K. Nelson Bioscience Innovation Building. The program is scheduled to start at noon CDT. In case of severe weather, the back-up date is Sunday, May 7.

The Honorable Diane Kavadias Schneider will serve as the keynote speaker. She became the first female judge of the Civil Division of the Lake Superior Court in 2000, and previously served as Court Administrator in the Juvenile Division and Magistrate in the County Division. She has served on boards of the Lake County Bar Association, Indiana State Bar Association and the Indiana WINGS Guardianship Task Force. Under her direction and in partnership with Franciscan Health, Lake County became the first Indiana county to have a volunteer guardianship program. In 2019, Judge Schneider retired after 33 years of service in the courts and now resides in Florida with her husband, David R. Schneider, retired Lake County Chief Public Defender.

Judge Schneider is a Northwest Indiana native and PNW alumna, having earned her bachelor's degree in English in 1971. She earned her Juris Doctor from the Valparaiso University School of Law in 1982. Judge Schneider will be awarded her Master of Arts in English from PNW's College of Humanities, Education and Social Sciences during spring commencement.

Calumet College Unveils $7.5 Million Capital Campaign

Calumet College of St. Joseph (CCSJ) unveiled its $7.5 million “Belonging & Becoming Campaign” on Friday, April 21st during its 58th Annual Scholarship Gala held at the Hard Rock Casino. President Amy McCormack informed the crowd that over $6 million has already been raised in the leadership gift phase. “We are excited to launch our Belonging & Becoming Campaign to ensure a dynamic future for CCSJ. With your support we become a stronger institution that is an anchor to our community and a place where many belong,” said Dr. McCormack.

As a Catholic college in the tradition of its founder and sponsor, the Missionaries of the Precious Blood (C.P.P.S.), the campaign investments will support: scholarships to continue to make college affordable for years to come; relevant academic programs with a liberal arts foundation; new student-centered spaces to enhance students’ collegiate experience; and the Annual Fund to sustain daily operations.

The campaign is being co-chaired by Larry and Jill Meyers and Tom (’03) and Vicki Znavor (’98). “I have had the honor and privilege to be a Board member since 1991. I am what you might say, committed. I ask that you join me and belong to our college family and friends to continue our goal to serve our community and students by helping them enhance their lives through education,” said Larry Meyers, Chair of the Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Znavor, who is also a member of the Board of Trustees, said, “We live in a world where it’s easy to get lost or to be viewed as just another number, but that doesn’t happen at Calumet College of St. Joseph. Our faculty, staff and board care deeply about ensuring our students have every opportunity to be their best and to give something back to the world.

For more information about the Belonging & Becoming Campaign, visit: ccsj.edu/belongingcampaign.

Calumet College of St. Joseph was founded in 1951, and is the only Catholic college in Northwest Indiana. It is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, offering associate’s, bachelor’s, and master’s degrees. Since 2000, CCSJ has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) by the Department of Education – the first college in Indiana to receive the HSI designation.

Business Resource Workshop to be held May 16th

Regional Development Company, Northwest Indiana Small Business Development Center, Indiana Economic Development Corporation, Northwest Indiana Forum, invite business owners to a Staging Success Workshop: Strategies for Next Steps, on Tuesday, May 16th, 2023, at 8am at the Purdue Technology Center of NWI, 9800 Connecticut Drive in Crown Point, Indiana.

This event will concentrate on how existing businesses can take their development to the next level. Topics include - specialty resources on manufacturing and exporting, market and industry data, state tax credits and programs, snapshot business valuations and expansion project and owner-occupied commercial real estate financing.

The workshop is hosted by the Northwest Indiana Small Business Development Center, Indiana Economic Development Corporation, Northwest Indiana Forum, and Regional Development Company. Expert speakers include Lorri Feldt, Regional Director of the NW-ISBDC, Erica Dombey, President and Executive Director of the RDC, Spencer Summers, Director of Economic Development of the Northwest Indiana Forum, and Linda Walczak, VP of Business Retention & Expansion of the IEDC. “While we work with all levels of entrepreneurs, this specific workshop is tailored to second-stage companies that may need guidance in the right direction to the next chapter,” Feldt said. “There are many tools and resources that we will detail, and our speakers will be available to connect with directly at the event.”

“In 2023, growing businesses must remain adaptive and creative in an ever-fluctuating market,” Erica Dombey said. “The heavy influx of cash throughout the pandemic will continue to wane and interest rates are still projected to increase. Refinancing existing loans may result in financing gaps being filled due to higher interest rates and increased scrutiny during underwriting. Business owners should know all the financing options available to them in this dynamic environment”

“It is a great time to own a business in Northwest Indiana!” Spencer Summers said. “Regional partners such as these remain fundamental in offering key business solutions and expand upon opportunities that the State has provided.”

The Regional Development Company (RDC), headquartered in Valparaiso, IN and with a location in Matteson, IL, is a non-profit organization and Certified Development Company (CDC) that administers the U.S. Small Business Administration’s 504 Loan Program for small business growth.

For more information about the Regional Development Company or the U.S. SBA 504 Loan Program, please call the Regional Development Company at 219-476-0504 (Indiana) or 708-960-3177 (Illinois) or visit www.rdc504.org.

Terry Stigdon Named CEO of the American Red Cross Indiana Region

The American Red Cross Indiana Region is proud to announce Terry Stigdon, MSN, RN, as its new chief executive officer. Stigdon will step into her new position on May 15 and will be based out of the regional headquarters in Indianapolis. In her new role, she will oversee Red Cross programs and services for over six million people in 104 counties and six Red Cross chapters.

“We are thrilled to welcome Terry to the Red Cross. Her proven leadership and deep roots in the Indiana region will be vital as we continue to work with and for our communities to make them more resilient,” said Genevieve Shaker, board chair for the Greater Indianapolis Chapter. “Terry is someone who gets how we ‘do community’ in the Indiana Region.”

Stigdon served as director of the Indiana Department of Child Services from 2018 to 2023, where she was responsible for leading the state child protection and child support agency. During her five-year tenure, Stigdon was responsible for implementing changes aimed at providing the best service to children and families. Prior to joining the state’s Department of Child Services, Stigdon, a registered nurse, spent nearly 20 years in various leadership positions at Riley Hospital for Children at IU Health, including clinical director. Her work at the hospital took her to the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit, Emergency Medicine and Trauma Center, and Forensic Nursing.

“I’m very excited to be joining the American Red Cross and have long been impressed by the lifesaving mission of this humanitarian organization. As a part of their many services, the community resiliency efforts of the Indiana Red Cross are making a difference and I can’t wait to roll up my sleeves and get to work alongside our many Red Cross volunteers and employees!” said Terry Stigdon.

Stigdon has authored various articles about child welfare. She is also a member of several professional organizations, including the American Organization of Nurse Executives. Currently, Stigdon serves on the boards of the Child Welfare League of America and the American Public Human Services Association.

She holds a master’s degree in nursing leadership and management from Western Governor’s University and a bachelor’s degree in nursing from the University of Indianapolis.

Crossroads YMCA breaks ground on new Destination YMCA in Hammond

Crossroads YMCA is pleased to officially break ground on a new Hammond Destination YMCA through a partnership with the City of Hammond and Mayor Thomas M. McDermott, Jr. to create a new and expanded $70M YMCA at the former Woodmar Mall/Carson Pirie Scott site adjacent to the Hammond Sportsplex

The new destination YMCA includes over 120,000 square feet of space, over three times larger than the YMCA's current Hammond facility. The new YMCA will provide Hammond a state-of-the-art facility that will include programming to address wellness and provide a safe place for kids and families. The YMCA's presence in Hammond has never been stronger. At its current location, 7322 Southeastern Avenue, the Y serves 17,000 members each year. Membership and programming continue to thrive and grow, confirming the need for expansion of the YMCA presence in Hammond.

The new Destination YMCA will benefit from financial commitments from the Dean & Barbara White Family Foundation and the City of Hammond through Mayor Thomas M. McDermott, Jr. and the city's Redevelopment Commission. "This is a game-changing development for Hammond and the Region," said Mayor Thomas M. McDermott, Jr. "The City could not be more excited about this new 70M dollar investment in Hammond. Having the Y locate on the former Carson's and Woodmar Mall site is a huge success for our community. Along with the Hammond Sportsplex, it will be a cornerstone attraction for the city and a strong economic development driver for additional development."

Hammond's 3rd District Councilman, Barry Tyler, Jr. also expressed the excitement for this project. "Rarely are we able to welcome a project to this district, to our city, that checks all the boxes," said 3rd District Councilman Barry Tyler, Jr. "This YMCA project does just that; something that will help meet the mental, social and physical needs of our entire community. Hopefully this property and intersection will regain even more of its former glory, dating back to the Woodmar mall days."

The YMCA expects the new location to serve up to 50,000 people each year in North Lake County. As the Y breaks ground, the goal is to have the building complete and begin serving members at the end of 2024.

The new YMCA in Hammond will benefit the community in the following ways:

- Offer additional experiences for kids to be healthy and active, to explore interests, to grow self-confidence;
- Provide a place for quality family time;

- Be a safe place for kids;
- Additional capacity and classes for kids/families to be safe around water;
- Support families by expanding summer learning loss prevention through programs like day camp and before/after school care;
- Address chronic disease by providing programs geared around water and land exercises;
- Expand programs and services for our seniors to include low impact water and level classes;
- Increase job opportunities—the new facility will add approximately 200 jobs

The facility details

The facility will include three pools: a warm water family pool, a six lane lap pool and an outdoor waterpark. There will be an indoor track, expansive wellness center for cardio and strength training, gyms and studios for youth sports, youth and adult group exercise classes. A family recreation center, juice bar, and a community meeting room with teaching kitchen will provide areas for gathering and socializing.

However, our new facility is much more than just the brick and mortar. It's about how we will be able to serve 50,000 members/year throughout our community, help our community manage health concerns; helping children develop confidence, and reduce social isolation for all ages. These new initiatives we will be able to offer, which will positively impact all of our lives and ultimately improve the health and well-being of our entire community. Our income-based scholarship program will continue to ensure that no one is turned away due to an inability to pay. First Allied jet-propelled aircraft flies

On May 15, 1941, the jet-propelled Gloster-Whittle E 28/39 aircraft flies successfully over Cranwell, England, in the first test of an Allied aircraft using jet propulsion. The aircraft's turbojet engine, which produced a powerful thrust of hot air, was devised by Frank Whittle, an English aviation engineer and pilot generally regarded as the father of the jet engine.

Whittle, born in Coventry in 1907, was the son of a mechanic. At the age of 16, he joined the Royal Air Force (RAF) as an aircraft apprentice at Cranwell and in 1926 passed a medical exam to become a pilot and joined the RAF College. He won a reputation as a daredevil flier and in 1928 wrote a senior thesis entitled Future Developments in Aircraft Design, which discussed the possibilities of rocket propulsion.

From the first Wright brothers flight in 1903 to the first jet flight in 1939, most airplanes were propeller driven. In 1910, the French inventor Henri Coanda built a jet-propelled bi-plane, but it crashed on its maiden flight and never flew again. Coanda's aircraft attracted little notice, and engineers stuck with propeller technology; even though they realized early on that propellers would never overcome certain inherent limitations, especially in regard to speed.

After graduating from the RAF college, Whittle was posted to a fighter squadron, and in his spare time he worked out the essentials of the modern turbojet engine. A flying instructor, impressed with his propulsion ideas, introduced him to the Air Ministry and a private turbine engineering firm, but both ridiculed Whittle's ideas as impractical. In 1930, he patented his jet engine concept and in 1936 formed the company Power Jets Ltd. to build and test his invention. In 1937, he tested his first jet engine on the ground. He still received only limited funding and support, and on August 27, 1939, the German Heinkel He 178, designed by Hans Joachim Pabst von Ohain, made the first jet flight in history. The German prototype jet was developed independently of Whittle's efforts.

One week after the flight of the He 178, World War II broke out in Europe, and Whittle's project got a further lease of life. The Air Ministry commissioned a new jet engine from Power Jets and asked the Gloster Aircraft Company to build an experimental aircraft to accommodate it, specified as E 28/39. On May 15, 1941, the jet-propelled Gloster-Whittle E 28/39 flew, beating out a jet prototype being developed by the same British turbine company that earlier balked at his ideas. In its initial tests, Whittle's aircraft—flown by the test pilot Gerry Sayer—achieved a top speed of 370 mph at 25,000 feet, faster than the Spitfire or any other conventional propeller-driven machine.

As the Gloster Aircraft Company worked on an operational turbojet aircraft for combat, Whittle aided the Americans in their successful development of a jet prototype. With Whittle's blessing, the British government took over Power Jets Ltd. in 1944. By this time, Britain's Gloster Meteor jet aircraft were in service with the RAF, going up against Germany's jet-powered Messerschmitt Me 262s in the skies over Europe.

Whittle retired from the RAF in 1948 with the rank of air commodore. That year, he was awarded 100,000 pounds by the Royal Commission on Awards to Inventors and was knighted. His book Jet: The Story of a Pioneer was published in 1953. In 1977, he became a research professor at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. He died in Columbia, Maryland, in 1996.

Habitat for Humanity of Northwest Indiana Hires Charles Brown and Kim Krygsheld

Habitat for Humanity of Northwest Indiana is pleased to announce the addition of Charles Brown and Kim Krygsheld to its staff. Brown will serve as Construction Manager, and Krygsheld will serve as Faith Engagement Manager.

Brown brings over 30 years of experience in the construction industry to Habitat NWI. He has worked on all phases of residential construction and remodels. He is an Indiana University graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Krygsheld has over 16 years of experience organizing mission programs within the faith community. She has partnered with various local churches and denominations to provide home repair and tutoring services for needy families.

"We are excited to have Charles and Kim join our team," said Habitat NWI Executive Director Dawn Michaels. "Their experience and expertise will be a valuable asset to our organization as we continue to serve the needs of our community."

As Construction Manager, Brown will oversee the construction of Habitat NWI's homes. He will also be responsible for developing and implementing construction safety programs.

As Faith Engagement Manager, Krygsheld will be responsible for developing and implementing programs that engage faith-based organizations in the work of Habitat NWI. She will also be responsible for building relationships with faith leaders and congregations.

"I am excited to join the Habitat NWI team," said Brown. "I look forward to using my experience to help build homes for families in need and working with volunteers, teaching them carpentry skills needed to build high-quality homes."

"Joining the Habitat NWI team is a thrilling new path for me," said Krygsheld. "I look forward to building relationships with the faith community to help move Habitat's vision of affordable homeownership for all in Lake County."

Habitat NWI is a nonprofit organization that builds and rehabilitates homes for families in need. The organization also provides financial assistance and education to homeowners. Habitat NWI is a member of Habitat for Humanity International, a global organization that has helped more than 8 million families build or improve their homes.

2023 Disasters: Red Cross Helping People from Coast to Coast

The American Red Cross has been providing comfort and support nonstop to thousands of people across the country affected by the massive disasters that have occurred since 2023 began.

Since the first of the year, more than 3,400 trained Red Cross disaster workers from across the U.S. have delivered sorely needed assistance out west where relentless atmospheric rivers inundated California, as well as across the South and Midwest where deadly tornadoes and storms ripped through multiple states, upending entire communities.

Working alongside our partners, these Red Cross volunteers have provided (as of April 17):

- Almost 38,000 overnight stays in emergency shelters
- Almost 500,000 meals and snacks
- More than 156,000 relief supplies to households in need

These large relief efforts are on top of the thousands of home fires and smaller disasters in local communities that Red Cross volunteers respond to every day.

As we continue to provide food, shelter, supplies, health services and emotional support to families from California to Georgia, the Red Cross is also starting to helping people plan the next steps in their recovery. In some circumstances, this could include financial assistance for some of those hit hardest and in need of extra support.

The Red Cross is spending tens of millions of dollars to help families affected by these massive disasters spanning coast to coast. These costs include providing meals, shelter, blankets, cots, emotional support, health services, spiritual care, financial assistance and relief supplies. It also includes some of the less visible costs that make relief possible, including disaster response vehicles, warehouse space, staff, volunteer travel and technology expenses.

THE DANGER ISN'T OVER.

In California, experts are concerned that as the record-setting snowpack begins to melt it may cause more dangerous flooding in the weeks to come. Plus, the start of what could be very active hurricane and wildfire seasons is just around the corner.

These massive disasters are happening more and more as a result of the worsening climate crisis. In the last five years, the number of billion-dollar disasters has nearly doubled compared to the previous five years. And, the Red Cross is now launching twice as many relief operations for major disasters than we did a decade ago.

YOU CAN HELP

The Red Cross is on the ground now and will be working side-by-side with our partners to help people in need for weeks and months to come. Your generous donations will enable the Red Cross to respond to and help people recover from these disasters.

Help those affected by disasters like fires, storms and countless other crises by making a gift to Red Cross Disaster Relief. Visit redcross.org, call 800-RED-CROSS (800-733-2767), or text the word REDCROSS to 90999 to make a $10 donation. Your gift enables the Red Cross to prepare for, respond to and help people recover from disasters big and small across the country.

For those interested in helping people specifically affected by the storms and floods in California, we ask that they write "California Storms and Floods" in the memo line of a check and mail it with a completed donation form to the address on the form or to their local Red Cross chapter. Find the donation form at redcross.org/donate.

To ensure your donation helps people affected by only the Southern and Midwest tornadoes and storms, choose that option at redcross.org/donate or through 1-800-RED-CROSS (800-733-2767). You can also text the word TORNADO to 90999 to make a $10 donation.

BECOME A VOLUNTEER

With these ongoing disasters and active hurricane and wildfire seasons coming soon, there is a critical need for more individuals to volunteer so we can support people who depend on the Red Cross for help. Learn more here.

About the American Red Cross

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides comfort to victims of disasters; supplies about 40% of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; distributes international humanitarian aid; and supports veterans, military members and their families. The Red Cross is a nonprofit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to deliver its mission.
